

CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

As a values-based company that provides heritage and environmental services, Artefact is driven by positive social change.

In particular, we seek better outcomes and recognition of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander People.

Artefact is actively involved in a range of movements, charities and social change organisations and wherever possible seeks to engage suppliers and service providers that share our vision for a more inclusive and respectful society.

ABORIGINAL CULTURAL HERITAGE OFFICERS

At Artefact we believe that Aboriginal people are best placed to manage their own heritage.

That's why we've created the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Officer program and employ Aboriginal people in specialist positions.

We want to foster the next generation of First Nations heritage experts through this program of employment, training and mentoring.

MEMBERSHIPS

We make a positive impact to the community through our active involvement and formal memberships of the following organisations.

VOLUNTEER WORK

We contribute to the wider heritage sector via peak bodies with team members volunteering their time to support the following industry associations.

FUNDRAISING

Each year our staff nominate charities and causes that we get behind as a company to raise funds and awareness. In 2023 we supported the following groups.
